

HUMOROUS.

"Don't you think I have a good face for the stage?" asked a young lady with histrionic aspirations. "I don't know about the stage," replied her gallant companion, "but you have a lovely face for a 'bus'!"—N. Y. Commercial Advertiser.

"You never would suspect that the fine looking member of the horse guards, who shows off to such advantage on parade days, is the identical man who peddles milk and mashes the servant girls, would you? Such is the fact, however."—New Haven Register.

"I tell yer wot, boys," exclaimed old Ben, the roughest man in the camp; "I tell yer wot, boys, it made a feller feel kinder watery round the lids to hear that little chit of a thing a-settin' up thar like an angel a-sayin' her prayers so cute, 'Mary had a little lamb,' or sunthin' er thet sort."

"I feel I am growing old," said the lady, mincingly, to her guests, "for, really, I am beginning to lose my hair." (Of course she has bushels of it, and it is as black as a raven's wing.) "Then, ma," exclaims her little child, with the innocent frankness of infancy, "why don't you lock up the drawer when you put it away at night?"—From the French.

A French scientist has made some experiments recently which go to show that all classes of insects, in proportion to their size, are from fifteen to forty times as strong as a horse. If you don't believe in the strength of insect life, watch the velvety little bumble-bee, with the tropical polonaise, and see him lift a two-hundred-pound picnic man out of the grass.—Chicago Times.

When all the buffalo are killed off, if Uncle Sam can be induced to quit feeding the red devils on canned goods and other Government rations, they will have to put up at an American boarding-house, and then dyspepsia will wind up the noble red man. The Secretary of the Interior should cut this out and paste it where he will see it again.—Texas Siftings.

The new reporter was sent to the school exhibition. His report read pretty well; but there were a few things in it which did not meet the approval of the local editor—such, for instance, as these: "The essays of the graduating class were good, whoever wrote them;" "the floral offerings were excessive, and from the number received by Miss Simplegush we judge her father owns a first-class greenhouse;" "the young lady who read the valedictory to the teachers has in her the making of a fine actress. She simulated sorrow so accurately that the writer might have been misled had he not subsequently heard the young lady speak of this same 'dear teacher' as 'a hateful old thing.'"

A Train Waits for a Pound of Candy.

A well-dressed young man approached the conductor of the special train for Norwich at New London Saturday night and asked him if he would delay his train a few minutes while he went for a valuable package he had left in the palace car of the Shore Line Road. He replied: "I will," and kindly waited. The conductor saw the ferry-boat nearly across the river with the car which the young man was looking for. He gave the signal to start, and the train sped northward. He interviewed the young man and upbraided him for detaining him longer than necessary by not giving him notice when he was ready to go aboard. Thinking there might have been Government bonds or priceless jewels in the missing package, he asked what was in the package, that he might aid him in recovering it. At first the young man declined to answer, but he finally replied: "A pound of French candy." The candy was returned to this city from Providence Wednesday night. Thirteen letters and postal cards were written about the stuff, to say nothing of the delay of fifty tired passengers for ten minutes Saturday night.—Norwich (Conn.) Bulletin.
